

Case Study:

Audio Visual Suite

When a private insurance provider wanted to convert their staff restaurant into a multi-purpose media and presentation suite they looked to Voicepath Ltd.

The brief was to provide Audio Visual (AV) components into a space where staff could hold corporate meetings and events, private functions and social club meetings such as Cinema Club, Video Gaming Club and Poker Club.

Our solution provided a new voice and data backbone infrastructure to allow for future expansion, upgrade of the original audio visual components and a provide new Local Area Network (LAN) to allow access to business networks.

The Solution

Our extensive knowledge of multi media components and infrastructure installation enabled us to design a cost effective system that optimised the audio visual equipment's capabilities and provided a solution that was flexible and easy to use.

The presentation resource network designed by Voicepath consisted of professional grade Sony LCD monitors, Panasonic HD projector, Eyeline projection screen, Smart Wireless microphone components, Denon professional audio equipment and Mordaunt speakers.

The addition of room control created easy management of the multiple audio visual components. The focal point of the installation is a bespoke iKON AVS 16 multi function podule, an expandable control pad that provides direct control over all audio visual display devices enabling seamless operation.

The Result

The Audio Visual Suite, with a capacity of 150, is a spectacular multi-media space providing large format HD video with supplementary LCD screens for larger audiences; stereo sound with option to upgrade to 5.1 surround sound; Satellite TV; a wireless microphone system all controlled by a simple control pad. The new LAN infrastructure provides network access and teleconferencing capabilities making it a truly multi use space.

It was a challenge to adapt the many different types of media and make them interchangeable and able to operate independently of each other. Voicepath's experience with multi media solutions met all the challenges resulting in a state of the art meeting room where employees attend visually engaging business meetings, enjoy club nights, watch events on a large screen or provide background music for private functions.
